How often should you feed fish | Tropical Fish Keeping 22556 posts · Joined 2009. #4 · Feb 4, 2013. With the exception of fry (which need multiple feedings daily to properly develop) and a few rare species, most freshwater tropical fish can manage well with one feeding per day or less. Missing the water change day is very advisable, because fish should never be fed prior to a major disturbance My Fish are Randomly Dying Off! | Tropical Fish Keeping Now these are the things I have done recently, please help me figure out why my fish are dying. 1. My friend gave me 5 black tetras for my tank (week and a half ago) 2. I cleaned my tank (including filter + heater, no chemicals used) 3. I put some small snails in my 29 from my 2 gallon (i thought the dojo would snack on them) 4.

Freshwater and Tropical Fish Arowanas, Bichirs, Eels, Gars, Gobies, Knife Fish, Lung Fish, Freshwater Puffer Fish, South American Leaf Fish, Stingrays. Lighting: How It Affects Freshwater Fish | Tropical Fish Keeping Fish are affected by light in many ways. There are several well-documented studies on spawning in some species being triggered by changes in the day/night cycle, and the hatching of eggs and the growth rate of fry can be impacted significantly depending upon the presence and intensity of light. The health of fish is closely connected to the ...

Chat room - Tropical Fish Keeping Life isn't fair. My betta fish, Neptune, (Black Orchid Male) was born in a cup and shoved into the world for decoration. I "bought" him from a Petco and he lived a nice life in a five gallon tank all on his own. He wasn't completely isolated, next to his tank is a 30 gallon tank with live plants and goldfish. He loved to sit on his leaf What tropical fish work well in hard, high Ph water? What kind of tropical fish do well in such high, hard water levels? I have a 55-gallon tank that currently houses a female betta, a male swordtail, a young angelfish, 1 cory cat, 1 giant danio, and four zebra danios. I have lost 2 angelfish and five swordtails already, and I think it has to do with the high Ph.

Surface dwelling fish | Tropical Fish Keeping Surface dwelling fish. I need good ideas on what some nice looking top dwelling fish are. I just finished cycling a 55 gallon tank and it has three Bala Sharks and and big african dwarf frog. So any suggestions are helpful. Thanks. Ditch the bala sharks unless you are getting a 100-150 gallon tank in the next 2 months.. Tropical Fish Keeping Load More. Tropical Fish Keeping. 598.2K posts. 85.4K members. How to Humanely Euthanize a Fish | Tropical Fish Keeping Place the fish in the container. If the fish is in a clear container, place a dark towel around it to calm the fish. 2. Fill a small, clean jar or bottle with tank water, leaving some room at the top. This might be a baby food jar or pill bottle. Put 1 drop of clove oil in the jar or bottle, cap and shake vigorously.. Sudden Tropical Fish Death Fish: I have 1 small silver dollar (same size as my fruit loop fish/glass tetra), 1 gourami, 1 dwarf gourami (about the size of a cheerio), one snail and as of last night I had one full sized boesemani rainbow fish. The Issue: My fish keep suddenly dying, the rainbow fish was swimming fine last night and looked normal but this morning it was dead.
